On October 19th, the Senior recognition and Student Council installation was held to honor seniors and dedicate the 2018-19 Student Council. All Student Council members pledged to be a positive role model, represent CHS in school wide projects, and support Administration. This included a candle ceremony where the Student Council Officers lit a candle to symbolize their dedication to the school. The Student Council is not only dedicated to serving Chesnee High School, but the Chesnee community, as well.

Relay for life is a school wide fundraiser where the students and teachers donate money for cancer research. This year the fundraiser lasted two weeks; October 22\textsuperscript{nd} - 25\textsuperscript{th} and October 29\textsuperscript{th} - November 2\textsuperscript{nd}. Within the two weeks we sold ribbons in honor of cancer survivors and in memory of the brave loved ones who passed away from cancer. The ribbons were displayed on the main hallway bulletin board at B wing. With the help of the students and faculty, Chesnee High School raised a grand total of $441.41. Mrs. Crain’s class raised $111.58, winning the class competition. A check will be presented in the spring.

This year, the Art II and AP Art classes got the chance to go to the Piedmont Interstate Fair to see the artwork there. Students saw the Flower House, Commercial and Agricultural Buildings, as well as the animals at the fair. Not only did students see their own artwork on display, but the Flower House also had a variety of other art displayed. This variety exposed students to artworks from all ages. They learned that decorating a table, antiques, quilting, and crochet are also forms of art. Students got the chance to see and touch the animals that they included in some of their artworks in class. The Art Fair’s art contest is open to preschool all the way up to adults. It is also divided by grade levels. Chesnee entered in the 9th-12th grade contest and won four awards. Congratulations to the ladies below on their awards!

This year's band season proved to be a very successful one for the Chesnee Eagles. At the 29th Annual Chesnee Eagle Classic, they hosted 19 bands from all over South Carolina, including one from North Carolina. Also, on October 17th, the Eagles competed in the Class 2A State Championship placing 13th out of 48 bands, which is very impressive! The band director, Akeem Downs, was interviewed and asked, “How do you think the season this year went?” He responded with, “I believe this season went well. It has been a major learning curve for the students, as well as, for the staff. We learned a lot of lessons this year that will allow us to continue to grow and improve for next season.” His next question was, “From this year’s success, how do you think the band will do next season?” His response was, “This year, we will be losing our senior class, who have carried us through this season, so next year we will have a young group. They will continue to improve from the lessons learned this year. Also, we are planning to design our own show next season, so it will prove to be a very interesting season.” Everyone is proud of the band’s success this year and can’t wait to see what’s to come!
When I went to interview Akeem Dawns and I asked him does color guard always perform with the marching band. His answer was “The color guard always performs with the band they compete together and win together”. I also asked Mr. Dawns what does color guard do for band and his answer was “Color guard represents what the band color is and what the band is trying to represents and they explain the story of what the band is trying to tell to the audience”.

The Chesnee Wrestling team hosted the ‘Chesnee Invitational Tournament’ on December 8th. Twelve teams were scheduled to compete, however, the predicted snowstorm kept two teams from traveling. The tournament was a success as it raised much needed funds for the wrestling program. Several Chesnee Wrestlers placed in the finals. Luke Hollifield, Brandon Dasen, Ford Thomas, Luke Castillo, Avery Greene, and Angel Pardo, all placed 2nd.
